

Diane Rish is Associate Director of Government Relations at the American Association (AILA) in Washington, D.C. In this role, she advocates for regulatory, and policy reforms before Congress and the agencies, consistent with priorities. Prior to joining AILA, she practiced for several years in North Carolina employment-based immigration attorney, with a focus on the semiconductor advanced technology industries. Diane earned her J.D. from the University of her Bachelor's degree from Tufts University.